FLORENCE

SEWING MACHINE.

Award of the Report of the Committee of Award at the Fair of the NEW YORK, 1865.

To the FLORENCE SEWING MACHINE CO.
for the Best Family Sewing Machine, Highest Premium! Gold Medal!

REASONS:

1st.—Its simplicity and great range of work.

2d.—The Reversible Feed Motion.

3d.—The perfect finish and best manner in which the Machine is made.

4th.—The rapidity of the working and the quality of the work done.

5th.—The self-adjusting Tension.

The Florence was awarded the first and highest premium at the State Fair of California, the only Fair on the Pacific coast at which any two double thread Sewing Machines were exhibited in competition in 1865.

The Florence received the only premium awarded, by the Mechanics' Institute of San Francisco, in 1864 and 1865, to any Sewing Machine. Sewing Machine Co. and Agent. The claim of a competitor to a medal is without any foundation whatever.

Wherever the Florence has been brought in competition with other Sewing Machines, it has always been declared the best. It is the most simple, the most substantial, the most efficient, and its use is easily learned. Every Machine sold is guaranteed in the full sense of the word.

GIVE A KIND WORD TO THEEERING.

Give a kind word to theeering.
It may raise a fallen brother.
It may lead to heaven's teacher.
We should kindly treat each other;
Oh! the power of vice are many.
And when tempted and tried—Remember thou art mortal.
And thy soul is at stake.

Give a kind word to theeering.
Who have trod the way of sin,
For the seven voice may lure thee,
And thy feet may walk therein.
All along life's rugged highway Stones are bruising weary feet; Thistles spring among the flowers, Tares are growing with the wheat.

And the Master in His vineyard Hath a work for you to do.
For the harvest there is plentiful,
But the laborers are few.
Tarry not! the day is waning,
And the night is drawing on.
When the Master will reward you, For the work your hand hath done.

If from out one bleeding thorn You have plucked one bitter thorn; If you've cheered a drooping spirit When its every hope was gone;
If you've stretched the hand in kindness,
To lead erring, straying feet,
Then the rich reward is yours,
And Love's Labor—Oh! how sweet!

If along life's rugged highway You have raised one drooping flower, If your smile has ever gladdened
The face of a sorrowing mourner, It has placed a star to glitter In the angel crown above, And Life's mission is his joy When we make it one of love!

Oh! remember then, the erring!
Thou mayst lift the soul again;
And from some poor, guilty bosom Thou mayst wend a gloomy train;
In this weary world's broad vineyard There's work for all to do;
Be not a heart driven mad by sin,
But the laborers are few!

Work then—Life's sun is setting, And the Night of Death comes on,
And the light of life will be gone,
Will thy work be done?

THE OLD LIGHT-HOUSE AT EPEL.

The tide was making rapidly, and foaming along the shore, as old Adam Merchant pulled his boat into the little river upon which his cottage stood. He had been to the rocky point, half island and half mainland (according to the state of the weather), to light the signal of warning to storm-driven mariners to beware of the iron-bound coast, and with many an ominous shake of his gray head, hastened his return ashore.

"There'll be many a sail ground to powder before morning," he said to his old wife, as he seated himself before the blazing hearth, and lighted his pipe; "many a poor sail if they do not keep a good look-out."

"Why, Adam? Is there going to be a more than usually hard storm tonight?"

"The tide is setting in strong, and the wind has hauled around so as to blow on the land. I heard the Bear (a point of rocks so called) growling like mad as I came along, and as far along as my old eyes could see, the water was black as ink. I never knew such signs to fall in all my days; and Heaven help any ship that doesn't keep far away from the coast of Maine, to-night."

"Aye, Heaven help them," sighed his wife in reply; for she was thinking of two brave sons whom the sea had cast upon its cruel rocks, dead—sons who had been the pride of her declining years, and who were her all.

"Man and boy, I have seen at least twenty ships lay their bones up to bleach, and it has always been when the wind was North by East, as it is now. Do you mind, Hannah, the Golden Eagle?"

"Hush, Adam. I have dreamed of the pale faces of the women, and the poor sweet little children we found ready for burial, how my heart has been torn, how my soul will tempt the mercy of a good Lord for the sake of being a few hours sooner in port."

"It was a sad sight, wife—a sad sight; and somehow I feel just as I did that evening. I don't believe in warnings any more than most folks; but something tells me, as it did then, that there's going to be a wreck. But, thank goodness, I done my duty—done all that I could to save them. And, to satisfy himself that the lights in the light-house burned clearly, he opened the door and looked seaward."

The storm was much wilder than it had been when he entered an hour before.
The waves smiting the rocks with terrific power, and the foam was dashed high in the air, and whirled inland by the force of the wind. At times, the little point of rocks appeared to be completely submerged; but when a full cycle, he could see the steady, fixed white light, shining like a silver star through the gloom, and was satisfied that no blame could be attached to him for neglect of duty.

An hour later, and both he and his wife were in bed. But, contrary to his usual custom, he had left a light burning in the little cottage.

"Hannah," he said as he looked out for the last time after the Bible had been read and prayer said, "Hannah, something keeps telling me that I shall be wanted before morning, and its best to have all things ready."

"Long before midnight, however, both had forgotten their fears in heavy sleep.
The gale might have howled ten times as loud, and the waves beat upon the ragged rocks with a never before equalled fury, and it would not have disturbed them, for their trust was in Him whose simple "Peace, be still," can calm the wildest elemental war.

But a rap upon the door aroused them, and that quickly, as well as a voice shouting:

"Adam! Adam Merchant! I say man, get up."

"What do you want?"

"Did you forget to light the lamp to-night?"

"Me forget?" and a feeling of almost anger caused the honest face of the old man to flush to crimson. "Me forget?
In all the five and forty years I have tended them I never did such a thing."

"Then they are out, and a ship driving right upon the rocks. Hark a moment and you can hear her guns."

"The lamps out? A ship coming in and firing signals of distress? May the good Lord help them!" And for a moment the old man was so much unnerved as to be incapable of action.

"Look out and see for yourself, Adam."

I was going home after seeing a patient and finding that the lights were out, supposed I had better drive this way and tell you."

He knew then that it was the village doctor, and was instantly recalled to duty, and had to be restrained from rushing, half clad as he was, out into the storm.
But he was not to be stayed from entering his boat and attempt to kindle the waning blaze again.

"I can pull under the lee and go just as well as not. I have done so a hundred times, and it shall never be said that Adam Merchant shrank from his duty. Besides, if the boat should swamp, and I go down, it wouldn't be of much account, for I am getting old and useless."

And despite the tears and prayers of his wife and the advice of his physician, he pulled out stoutly into the storm and darkness—a brave old man and a good one.

With great difficulty he reached the point, secured his boat, crawled along the ledge of rocks and up the winding stairs. With difficulty, too, he re-lighted the lamps, for the wind was whistling and the sleet flying through a broken glass. At that instant he felt something soft under his feet, stooped down and raised up a dead sea-gull, and understood the mystery. The bird, wild with fear and overcome by exertion had dashed at the light, broken the pane and fallen within.

Tearing off his coat he shut out the gale, saw that the lamp was sending out its brilliant rays clearly over the murky waters, and then strained his ears to listen.

"Boom! boom! boom!" came at intervals, and then all was silence.

"The ship has struck! The ship has struck!" The bear has got food enough to-night," he said, sadly as he retraced his steps. "May the Lord have mercy, and save the poor souls, if it is His holy will."

Intent upon giving all the succor that was possible, the old man ran excitedly along the beach with his lantern in his hand. His coat remained in the light-house; the wind had blown his hat away, and the sharp sleet struck his face, and now and then forced him backward. Still he shrank neither from danger or pain. His entire nature was wrapped up in saving at least one human form from the cruel sea and the pitiless rocks.

Broken spars and timbers and the dead forms of men, women and children were whirling around him. He paused just long enough to satisfy himself that all earthly hope for them was past, and then hurried on. The physician was by his side assisting and encouraging him, and the hale old wife, with busy care, had beds, and hot water and blankets in readiness against the hour of need.

But it seemed as if all would be useless. The gray dawn came, heavy and laden, although the fury of the storm had passed. Yet not one life had been saved, and no good deed done save such as were performed for the dead.

"All gone! All gone! May Heaven have mercy upon their poor souls!" sighed the old man, as he turned once more toward the rocky point to extinguish the light.

By this time the neighbors had gathered—kind-hearted neighbors, who were too honest to rob the dead, and looked up aloft for the only recompense for charity.

"Adam," said one, "let me go to the light-house for you. You are worn out."

"No, thank you. I feel as if I would be for the last time, but if so I shall die in the harness."

"Then I will go with you."

Together they went along the slippery way, but it was not half accomplished before their steps were quickened, and with drawn breath the old man gasped:

"Look! look! There is a corpse hanging in the iron frame and steps!"

His words were true—they soon saw it, beyond all question. The form of a woman was suspended there, head downward and her long black hair was blown about by every breath of the wind.

"Dead! dead!" murmured the old man, as they drew her up with difficulty.

"Dead! All—all dead!"

"Look! Adam!" exclaimed his companion, "she has a child in her arms!"

Yes, a child—a little boy of scarcely two years, was found fast to her icy breast and huddled even in death by her nervous arms. The mother's power of a mother's love, had proved stronger than even dissolution!

"Look, John. See it too, is dead."

"No, Adam. It is alive! alive!"

From the breast of the dead mother to his own little wife of the ocean was instantly transferred, and then regardless of all other things, Adam Merchant hurried homeward.

At last his labors had been rewarded and when the little fellow opened his blue eyes, and smiled sweetly, and lisped the name of "Grandpa," his joy knew no bounds.

It was a sad, solemn sight when the bodies were buried. All were handled gently, but that of the dead mother of the boy was touched with a tenderness near akin to love. She, at least, had left behind something to keep her memory fresh and green.

All the love that had been hurried back upon their aching hearts when their bodies were drowned, was rekindled again within the aged couple. Early and late they played with and tended the child. But whose child? That they never thought to ask. It was enough that the sea had given it to them—enough that the providence of God had placed it in their arms. They never questioned His holy will.

"There is something that tells me, Hannah," said old Adam as he mended his nets one evening, "that this dear child rightfully belongs to us. Do you remember how our oldest looked, when he was of the same age?"

"He has Luke's face, and eyes, and hair, and—"

"It is his child! I know it," and he could scarcely refrain from breaking his slumbers by hugging it to his heart.

And Adam Merchant was right. Unknown to them (although at a later period it was clearly proven) his son had married in a foreign land, and the wife and child were coming in search of them when the ship was dashed to pieces, and the arms of the waters lifted them among the iron network of the light-house.

A GOLD KETTLE FOUND IN MON-TANA.—A most wonderful story reaches us from Montana; a tale which we should hardly credit, were it not related to us by one whom we consider worthy of credence. The gentleman who related the circumstance to us came down by the steamer yesterday, and had himself conversed with Mr. Edward Parsons, one of the lucky adventurers, who gave him the following particulars:

In July last, a company of five prospectors was made up in Helena, who having heard of the unexplored country around the head of the Yellowstone, determined to visit that district in search of lodes. The country was found to be almost free of Indians, and there was an abundance of game until they arrived within two days' journey of the Yellowstone Lake, when the scene entirely changed, the country being entirely bar-ren and permeated in every direction with hot springs, and fissures in the rock, from which issued smoke and noxious gasses.

Continuing their journey through a scorching atmosphere, and encountering some peril among the rough and irregular ridges of bare rock, which everywhere distinguished the landscape, the travelers, on the third day, came to the margin of a small lake, from which issued a river which they judged would lead to the Yellowstone. After following the stream for some time, they came to a long irregular mound crowned on the summit by an ancient stone "cairn," similar to those seen in parts of New Mexico, which was half concealed in grass and a growth of low bushes. As the work of removing the stones did not appear to be a difficult one, they being unencumbered and of medium size, it was proposed to open the cairn, which was done, after half a day's labor, and below was found a solid cement floor, which sounded hollow to the tread. Being, however, determined to complete their work, the travelers, after some labor, dug down some twelve inches, when they came to an immense stone, seven feet long which took the united strength of the party to remove.

Below there was a long low chamber, and when the eyes of the intruders became accustomed to the darkness, it was seen that an Indian catacomb had been unearthed. Seated in a single row around the quadrangle were the remains of upwards of thirty warriors, from whose forms the flesh had long since mouldered away, and whose very bones crumbled into dust at the touch of the spectator. On the floor around lay numerous instruments of war or chase, some of iron and some of stone, and the entire apartment was covered with a fine and almost invaluable dust, which was all that remained of the furs and robes with which this abode of death had doubtless, at one time been carpeted.

Lying beside these bones were numerous ornaments, indicating the rank of the dead, and among them were many of those twisted circlets of gold known to antiquarians as torques, which had at one time entwined the arms and necks of their savage owners. Some of these were of unusual size, weighing from one and a half to two pounds, and many minor ornaments of the same precious metal were also secured by the happy finders.

What chiefly attracted attention was a massive kettle or basin that occupied the center of the apartment, and was doubtless used as a sacrificial censor for burning incense, it being two feet high and two and a half in circumference. This massive article, wonderful to tell, proved on inspection to be pure gold, and was so heavy that the party had great difficulty in removing it from its place and bringing it into the upper air.
Endeavors were then made to break up the vessel, but the pure quality of the gold caused it only to bend beneath

DUTCH FLAT ENQUIRER.

SATURDAY, FEB. 8, 1868.

BRUTAL AFFAIR.—On last Sunday afternoon about half past four o'clock, as a man named Moro was walking along the road which leads from this place to Gold Run, and about one and a half miles from this place, near the Dutch Flat Depot, he met a Chinaman carrying two bags suspended on a pole, and thinking that all was not right Moro, caught him and commenced beating him with a cane. Driving him to the cabin of a man named Kinder he opened the sacks and examined the contents, finding, he alleges, a number of articles belonging to himself and also some of Kinder's property in the plunder. After completing his examination of the sacks, he tied the Chinaman up and began beating him again and demanding of him to acknowledge the theft; he succeeded, however, in getting no further satisfaction than that usually obtained from Chinamen—the extremely intelligent reply of "Me no sabe." He then untied him and took him to the Depot, about half a mile distant, thrashing him the whole of the way. Arriving at the Depot he discovered another Chinaman, and, flushed with success, he immediately formed the conclusion that this one too, must be engaged in the same lucrative business, and, acting upon the brilliant thought, he, with the assistance of several others, placed a rope about the neck of the Chinaman, with a view, we learn, of frightening him into a confession of his past crimes; but the John being very reticent they did not succeed in gaining any information from him. Moro then obtained a black-skin and started back with his captives to Kinder's cabin applying the unmerciful whip to them every step of the way, and immediately after arriving at Kinder's cabin stripped them and tied them to an upright scantling and continued his brutal torture with the seeming zest of a blood-thirsty savage. A lady named Mrs. Clarke, who lives about one hundred yards from the cabin of Kinder, hearing the groans and calls of the Chinamen, went to the cabin and interceded in their behalf. Moro dealt the Chinamen but two blows after Mrs. Clarke's arrival, but informed her that he would await until Kinder's return from Gold Run before completing the manly and civilized appearing task that he had undertaken. Between seven and eight o'clock P. M., Mrs. Clarke hearing a noise, went out of doors and listened when she could distinctly hear the loud, heavy blows of the assailants as they applied them to their fettered captives. This seizes, Mrs. Clarke thinks, must have lasted at least half an hour. The Chinamen were then turned loose and driven from the cabin and down the road, half naked as they were, by these men. One of the Chinamen was found near the depot lacerated almost beyond conception, and in a dying condition; the other one has not been found as yet, and it is but natural to suppose that he, too, is dead. Within our memory we cannot recall a single crime more brutal in its details; had the parties killed the Chinamen outright but little notice would have been taken of the event; as it is, it justly meets the condemnation of every citizen. The principle heroes of this occasion have, we are informed, decamped. The following is the verdict of the Coroner's jury summoned to investigate the cause of the death of the Chinaman found:

"We the undersigned, jurors summoned to appear before C. J. Brown, the acting Coroner in the town of Dutch Flat, county of Placer, at the Justice's office, on the 3d day of Feb., 1868, to inquire into the cause of the death of John Doe Chinaman, found dead in a China cabin in Dutch Flat, on the morning of the 2d of Feb., 1868, having been duly sworn according to law, and having made such inquiries, after inspecting the body and hearing the testimony adduced, upon our oaths, each and all do say that we find the deceased, whose name to us is unknown, came to his death on the night of the first of February in this town, by punishment and exposure incurred the same evening and night. We find that said punishment was inflicted by one, Old Man Moro, and Kinder and his partner in his cabin, and one Brown (all living near the place where the punishment was inflicted) and by a person or persons to us unknown."

All of which we duly certify by this inquisition in writing by us signed this 3d day of Feb., 1868. (Signed.)

MUST HAVE THE CAPITAL.—If the people of Santa Clara county do not succeed in having the State Capital removed to that section, they will, judging from the sentiment of the press of that county, throw up the sponge and die out of pure spite. The press of that county seem to be combined in a long howl, a strong howl and a howl altogether, for the past two months, asking, begging, praying, beseeching, threatening, and demanding the removal of the Capital to San Jose, a city noted only for its earthquakes. Why you misled members of the craft, don't you know that if the Capital is removed, neither of your one-horse establishments could succeed in getting a single dollar's worth of State printing? Not much! You had better hush your hungry mouths, and do not what your ravenous appetites up to too great a pitch or you might be compelled to turn upon yourselves. Don't spoil your shirt collars by working yourselves into a sweat, for you can't have the State Capital at San Jose.

We have received from H. H. Bancroft & Co., the second number of Putnam's Magazine; it comes fully up to the standard of its prospectus.

THE BRIBERY CASE.

There has been a great deal said in relation to this matter, both in the Legislature and by outside parties. The pamphlet—the authorship of which is assumed by General Volney E. Howard, an able lawyer and one who stands high both in political and social circles in this State—vaguely charges that corrupt means were used in the election of Mr. Casserly, as United States Senator. Upon the publication of the pamphlet, the Senate passed a concurrent resolution for the investigation of the charges in which the Assembly refused to concur, but one of the Democratic members of the Assembly offered an amendment providing that if any citizen of the State would make specific charges, that the President of the Senate and Speaker of the Assembly be authorized, without further action, to appoint investigating committees. So the matter now stands. It will be readily seen that the Senate has done all in its power to purge itself of any stigma which would be likely to attach itself to that body, and looking at the case from our stand-point, they were right to invite the closest scrutiny in the case. The Senate is composed of a Union majority, and if for no other reason would naturally desire to present a clear record on political grounds, and the gentleman who compose that body have displayed an earnestness that should commend them to the confidence and esteem of all good citizens. They have shown a disposition to sift the rumors of corruption, so far as they are concerned, from beginning to end, and by this action have gone far to silence any slander which may have been published against them. The case as relates to the Assembly, however, is different, that body has refused to have any investigation whatever of the matters as charged in the pamphlet, notwithstanding General Howard, the author, published a card in the San Francisco Alta stating that he courted an investigation of the charges of corruption and bribery contained in his book; that, therefore, in his official capacity, he had convicted gentlemen and had them sent to the penitentiary upon evidence less convincing than that charged in the work he published; that he desired investigation either from our State Legislature or the Senate of the United States—notwithstanding, however, this defiant attitude on the part of General Howard, and his apparent willingness to substantiate the charges made by him, we find that a majority of the members of the Assembly are disposed to pass the grave accusation of bribery over, many of them contenting themselves with uttering disclaimers as to the charges. Our Legislators, so far as their moral characters are concerned, should be like Caesar's wife, "above suspicion." They owe this much, at least, to the people of the State, if they do not possess in themselves that high honor for correctness of purpose which they are supposed to have from the honorable and exalted positions at present occupied by them. We do not express any opinion as to the guilt or innocence of any gentlemen in this matter, but it does seem to us that a majority of the Assembly should show a proper appreciation for their good name before the people, and that with the positive assurance of General Howard that there was "something in the charge" made by him, that the majority should have consented to an investigation no matter what its political complexion. The flimsy assertion made by some of the Democratic members that the charges of corruption and bribery came from the Republican party will not bear the slightest scrutiny. Gen. Howard is a Democrat, and was an aspirant for the Senatorship before the Democratic caucus, and received several votes. If the charges, made by whom they may, cannot be sustained the onus will rest upon Howard, and the members, as well as Mr. Casserly, his friends and Democratic party—so far as the charges are concerned—stand purged from the damning accusation under which they now stand and will continue to stand in the minds of all honest men.

THE PLACE TO GO.—Should any of our friends go to Sacramento and while there be in want of clothing of any description, from a sixty coat to a four bit necktie, we recommend them to go to the clothing emporium of L. Elkus, on the corner of Second and J streets, where they cannot fail to be suited. This gentleman is prepared to either furnish clothing ready made or take your measure and make them, a fit in all cases guaranteed, and goods sold at reasonable prices. See advertisement.

WEEKLY REPORTER.—We notice that the first publication of the State Capital Weekly Reporter will be commenced on the 20th instant. Those of our friends who desire a first class Democratic paper could not do better than subscribe for this weekly. Judging from the tone of the daily—from which the weekly will be made—our Democratic friends are likely to be supplied with all the "Constitutional Democratic" reading matter they may need. Its editorials are of a high, manly order, and there is no mis-making the policy advocated in its columns. Apart from the political complexion of the paper it is one of the best of newspapers, publishing the telegraphic news, both Overland and State, decisions of the Supreme Court, proceedings of both branches of the Legislature, and extensive Eastern news received by the overland mail.

THE FUTURE OF CALIFORNIA.

The future prospects of California present a scope so grand and so varied that the mind of man seems to avoid it as being of too great a magnitude for its feeble conception. As he undertakes to write a statistical estimation of the future prospects of California, the vast, unlimited resources rise up in such solid, incomprehensible numbers, that he shrinks back from the herculean task he has undertaken in dismay. Rising up before him he sees cities in localities now almost wholly uninhabited; the banks of our swift water courses lined with manufactories of every description, and the hum of machinery rises from every woody dell and open plain. He sees the thousands of acres of arable land, now unused, teeming with its wealth of fruits and grains; the hop and the grape vines climbing the thousands of poles erected therefor, and the cattle lowing on her thousands of hills. The wine-press is daily seen sending forth streams of purple treasure, such as Bacchus never sipped. Her golden treasures pouring forth from her bowls in undiminished quantities rules the money market of the world. Commerce opening with every country pours the gold of Europe, Asia, and the Islands into the strong vaults of our merchants and bankers. The world seeks our doors to buy breadstuffs, wines and dried fruits; and our manufactories in the mean while are turning out millions of yards of woolen goods to clothe the nations of the earth. Refinement and enlightenment, surpassed by no people in the world will be the future status of our society. Our scenery more grand than that of Switzerland, and our atmosphere pure and softer than that of Italy, will attract hither the thousands who yearly go to those countries to enjoy them, and their money will help to beautify and build up the shores of our princely landlords wherever they may be located. Whether on the shores of our mountain lakes or in the quiet valley of the Yosemite, or beneath the somber shades of the big trees. Our State will be renowned for the number, and superiority of her educational institutions; and the moral tone of our people will be a marvel among all nations. Here will our nation seek its Presidents, and the world its rulers.

NEARLY GONE.—The beautiful snow is disappearing very rapidly from our streets, and beneath we find the horrible mud in such quantities as to put to shame or cover up all the beautiful blacking, which you may have placed on your boots.

DISTRICT COURT SUMMONS.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, County of Placer, in the District Court of the 4th Judicial District of said State. The People of the State of California, to J. B. LEVYNE, Greeting:
You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint of J. B. LEVYNE, Plaintiff, against you, within ten days from the service of this writ, exclusive of the day of service, if served on you in your county; but if served on you without said County, and within said District, twenty days; and if served on you without said County and District, then in forty days from such service, exclusive of the day of service, in an action commenced on the 4th day of December, 1867, to obtain a judgement and decree of said Court, dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between you, Defendant, J. B. LEVYNE, and Hannah Levyne, Plaintiff herein. Plaintiff also prays that certain property, described in Plaintiff's complaint, as the homestead of said Plaintiff and Defendant, be decreed to Plaintiff, and that the common property of Plaintiff and Defendant, all of which you will find fully set out in Plaintiff's complaint, and to which said Plaintiff is hereby served, and you are hereby notified that if you fail to answer the complaint as directed, Plaintiff will take judgement by default against you, and apply to the Court for the relief prayed for in her complaint.

In witness whereof, I, D. W. Spear, Clerk of the Fourth Judicial District Court aforesaid, do herewith set my hand and impress the seal of said Court, at office in Auburn, this 4th (I.R.S.) day of December, 1867.
D. W. SPEAR, Clerk.

PREACHING at the Union Church to-morrow morning at the usual hours.

To-morrow evening the seventh lecture of a series will be delivered; subject: "Success."

There will be preaching in the M. E. Church on Sunday at the usual hours, morning and evening.

MYE.—The Mite Society met at Seffens' Hotel on Tuesday evening the 4th inst. Quite a large crowd were in attendance, and all seemed to enjoy themselves amazingly. About half past nine the quiet old heads retired, and the mischievous young ones engaged a fiddler and "formed on the floor for a quadrill." Fully the usual amount of sport was had, and the unfortunate individuals who were a little awkward to the usual number of dresses (we came in for one). The next meeting of the Society we learn will be on Tuesday evening the 11th, at the residence of Senator Bradley.

THE PROPOSED NEW COUNTY.—Speaking of the proposed new county to be taken from the territories of Nevada and Placer, the Nevada Gazette says:

A correspondence of the Grass Valley Union, writing from Gold Run, in Placer county, has some pertinent remarks in relation to the new county, proposed to be formed from the eastern portions of Sierra, Nevada, Placer and El Dorado. The writer admits that the people living near the summit are subject to great inconvenience on account of the difficulty of reaching their respective county seats in the winter season, and if they are allowed to establish a county government that no election should be made to the county being set off. This very fairly expresses the sentiment of the people of Nevada county on the subject. It is alleged that the move for a new county was started by the railroad company, on account of spite toward the people of Placer and El Dorado. We do not think this is the case. Corporations are not apt to damage themselves for the purpose of spiteful others; and they must know that the tax in the new county would be much higher than in the counties of Nevada and Placer. As far as Nevada county is concerned, the revenue that may be derived from the road is not regarded as of special importance, and the county would not be considered any power by detracting the eastern portion.

[The report that the Railroad Company started this project is utterly unfounded. The Company knew nothing of it until waited upon by friends of the measure to inquire as to the amount of taxable property they would have in the new county the present year.—Ed. Enq.]

GOLDEN ERA.—This is the only literary family newspaper on the Pacific coast, and our people should show a proper appreciation of the energy and perseverance of the proprietors in their efforts to supply them with first class reading matter and accord to it a generous support. See inducement for subscribing in the advertising columns.

THE AUBURN MINES.—The Stars and Stripes says in regard to the mines in that vicinity:

We hope to see the mines in this vicinity more fully developed during the coming season. Enough has been done to demonstrate beyond reasonable doubt that the quantity of gold hereabouts will yield from ten to twenty dollars per ton in free gold—many of them much more. The Black Lead, on Bald Hill, has no equal in the State for richness. The ledge is partly decomposed, and yields at the depth of seventy-five feet from $100 to $200 per day to the hand. In free course gold, we saw a large lot of gold at the Express office on Saturday last. The gold is worth nearly $18 per ounce in the market. There have been so many gold hunters in California that people are slow to believe anybody's statement. We advise those disposed to engage in mining to give heed to what we have said. We learn from McGonigle, one of the owners of the Black ledge, that it is the purpose of those interested to put up machinery in the Spring with a view to working the ledge, and also rock from the celebrated Green Emigrant claim near by.

DISTRICT COURT.—We clip the following statement of the business transacted in this court thus far during the February term from the Stars and Stripes:

Butterfield vs. C. P. R. Co.—set for 12th inst. Hester vs. R. H. McDonald, 12th inst. Stone vs. Bumpus—set for 10th inst. Biner vs. Osburn—continued for the term. Horman vs. Osburn—plaintiff from McGonigle, one of the owners of the Black ledge, that it is the purpose of those interested to put up machinery in the Spring with a view to working the ledge, and also rock from the celebrated Green Emigrant claim near by.

FAVORS.—We are indebted to Senators Bradley and Tweed, for various State documents, and also to Mr. Ellis Edwards for similar favors.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The Remedy for Curing Consumption, Asthma, Croup, Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppressions of the Chest, Lungs, Difficult breathing, and all Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

It is a powerful expectorant, alternative, sudorific, diaphoretic, and diuretic, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites the expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS and PURIFIES the BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action and imparts strength to the whole system. It is warranted to give entire satisfaction, even in the most confirmed cases of consumption, and not to produce costiveness (as do most remedies) or effect the head, as it contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless to the most delicate child, although an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. There is no necessity for so many remedies by consumption when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time.

HOPE FOR THE ABANDONED.—In another part of this paper will be found the advertisement of the celebrated Institute established by Dr. J. C. YOUNG, in 1850. In this age of deceit and charlatanism it is a boon to the suffering to point out to them where they are sure of obtaining the wished for relief and cure. Under the care of the skillful Doctor the sick and troubled can divest themselves of their burdens of pain, their aching nerves and secure health and happiness. If you are sick or in trouble, do not hesitate. Read the advertisement and follow the advice. Do not forget the number or the manner of directing your letters. Consultation Office, 549, Washington street, San Francisco.

MEDICAL ADVICE.—DR. WM. K. DOWNEY'S Medical and Surgical Institute is becoming a sine qua non to the welfare of our State and health of our citizens; and his rapidly spreading reputation, although it may excite surprise, is but the signal of skill, and follows as the natural result of such a cause. We are personally acquainted with gentlemen who had suffered for years under chronic disease, and who had taken advantage of every available means that promised relief, without success, until they called upon Dr. Doherty, who, in an incredibly short space of time, has given them entire relief. It is gratifying to announce this fact, because the Dr. is a gentleman who seeks, not by deflation of others to establish his reputation or ruin of another's fame. The Doctor conducts his own Institute in such a manner as to be gratifying to all his patients. He examines, advises, and recommends, without charge, and the patient, after hearing his terms for treatment, can accept or reject at pleasure. In no case does the Doctor make a charge unless he effects a cure. This he is able to do, because he has in his office the latest and most improved modes of consulting, at all events, it can do no harm, as for consultation he asks no fee; nor does he in any case oblige to his patients to return to him for further treatment under his care. His offices are on Sacramento street, opposite the Pacific Mail Steamship office.—News SPECIAL MEDICAL NOTICE.—DR. CHARLES H. TOZER would most respectfully inform the sick and afflicted that his Medical Institute is removed to No. 108 Montgomery street, next door to the Occident Hotel, San Francisco, having relinquished all modes of advertising, which has become so common with all the Quack Doctors of San Francisco, filling up the newspapers with false references, for the purpose of imposing upon strangers. I think it is only necessary to inform those in need of a Physician of long experience and successful practice, that I can be consulted at all business hours, at my Medical Institute, next door to the Occident Hotel, San Francisco.

Ladies suffering from the Whites, Piles, Weakness of the Back, Pain in the Side, Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, and all other diseases that the Female System is subject to, will find prompt relief by applying to DR. TOZER.

His Female Medical Pills were never known to fail in giving relief in those cases for which they are recommended. To be obtained only at my office. Price of each bottle, 25 cents. Sent by mail or express.

ATRUERY.—Tripping down the stair way once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side: Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water; Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames and pulled baby down on top of her; Jane came up from the kitchen and put out over lighted lamp; "because the house was afire," and Bridget returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly burned.

Then how quickly Davis' Pain-Killer soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain-Killer, valuable for many an ill and aches.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Body.

SARSAPARILLIAN!
(PREPARED FROM VACUO.)

The Curative Principle of Sarsaparilla enters largely into the composition of

R. R. R. RESOLVENT.

One Bottle of Resolvent Better than Ten Large Bottles of Sarsaparilla.

One Bottle will Purify the Blood, and Expel Corruption from the Body!

So swift is this remedy in entering into the circulation that it has been detected in the blood and urine in six minutes after it has been taken.

R. R. R. RESOLVENT cures with astonishing rapidity every form of Chronic, Scrofulous and Skin Diseases, and exterminates all corruption from the human system.

One bottle of Dr. Radway's Resolving Resolvent contains more of the active curative principles of the best Sarsaparilla, (Sarsaparilla), than Ten of the largest size bottles of the mixture sold under the name of Sarsaparilla.

The process adopted by Dr. Radway in securing extracts (prepared in vacuo) of Medicinal Roots, Plants, Herbs, and other vegetables possessing great curative properties over Scrofula, Chronic, Syphilitic and skin diseases, that enters into the composition of the Resolving Resolvent, produces only ONE OUNCE of the pure extract out of 30 lbs. of crude roots. The inert matter that enters so generally in the large bottles and is prepared under the official or pharmacopoeia formula, is, by Dr. Radway's process, cast aside as rubbish.

One teaspoonful of the Resolvent is sufficient for a dose for all Skin, Salt Rheum, Pimples, Bores, Sores and Eruptions of the Skin, Humors in the Blood, &c.

At the commencement of three times a day, with a few days, make the Blood pure, the Skin clear, the Eyes bright, the Complexion smooth and transparent, the Hair, Pimples, Blisters, Tetter, Cankers, &c., from the Head, Face, Neck, Mouth and Skin. It is pleasant to take, and the dose small.

The first dose that is taken seizes on the disease and commences its work of resolving away all disease deposits, Purifying the Blood, and driving corruption from the system.

The Resolving Resolvent, if used in any of the following named complaints, will positively cure the patient:

Skin Diseases, Cures of the Bones, Humors in the Blood, Constitutional, Chronic and Scrofulous Diseases, Scrofula, Syphilis, Fever, Ulcers, Sores, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Blisters, Scald Head, Cankers, Sores, White Swellings, Glandular Swellings, Boils, Nodes, Sore Ears, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ear, Ophthalmia, Itch, Constitutional Debility, Skin Eruptions, Wasting and Decay of the Body, Pimples and Blisters, Tumors, Cancerous Affections, Dyspepsia, Water Brash, Neuralgia, Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Urethra, Stricture, Difficulty of Passing Water, Calculous Deposits &c.

ALARMING INCREASE OF BLADDER, KIDNEY AND CALCULOUS DISEASES.

The annual reports of the Health Commissioners of different cities, show a great increase of deaths from diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs.—RADWAY'S RESOLVENT is the only remedy that has dissolved calculous concretions.

RESOLVENT dissolves all uric and tonic properties exceed that of any medicine in the world; it readily assimilates with the fluids, and causes straining when at rest.

Urethra and Bladder, removing calculous obstructions, and correcting all derangements of these organs.

So swift is this remedy in passing into the circulation, that it has been detected in the urine in six minutes after it has been taken; by adding to a liquid when cold a few drops of starch, then a few drops of nitric acid, the liquid will change to a blue color. When bright dust, or a thick white deposit, like the white of an egg, albumen is detected in the vessel or bloody discharge from the urthra, or micraturia in drops, accompanied by a burning or scalding pain—the RESOLVENT should be used and R. R. RELIEF rubbed on the spine, &c.

RADWAY'S PILLS being an aperient, soothing, and tonic laxative, are the only purgative medicine safe to administer in the most delicate cases of the Kidneys and Bladder, and for evacuating without irritating the mucous membranes of the bowels, Kidneys, ureter, bladder, &c., or causing straining when at rest.

Price of Resolvent, $1 per bottle, or 6 for $5. Pills 25 cts. R. R. RELIEF, 50 cts. per bottle. Principal Depot, 87 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Sold by all Druggists and Country Merchants.

REDINGTON & O'S

ESSENCE OF JAMAICA GINGER.

This valuable preparation, containing a highly concentrated form of all the properties of the Jamaica Ginger, has become one of the most popular domestic remedies for all diseases of the stomach and digestive organs.

As a tonic it will be found invaluable to all persons recovering from debility, whether produced by fever or otherwise, for whilst it imparts to the system all the glow and vigor that can be produced by wine or brandy, it is entirely free from the reactionary effects that follow the use of spirits of any kind.

It is also an excellent remedy for females who suffer from difficult menstruation, giving almost immediate relief to the spasms that so frequently accompany that period.

It is a most valuable medicine, caused by the riding in a railroad car, or by sea-sickness, or other causes. It is also valuable as an external application for Gout, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, etc.
